admitting students was that they did not have enough teachers," said an official at the university.

The July 16 notice, signed by the acting registrar, says: "It has also been observed that a sizeable number of colleges are yet to update their BRC (Eastern Regional Council of 1972) faculty list as was notified earlier."

In the updated faculty list, the colleges must mention the teachers' names and provide their photographs and academic qualifications.

Gift of blood from across border

Launched in 2011 by the current king, the de-stigma programme encourages citizens from all walks of life to take up a role in nation-building and draws volunteers, called desajys.

Once the royal command was issued, the volunteers were screened, ensuring only eligible donors would travel to India. "We started from Thimphu in 2011, crossed the border at Phuotshaling by bus and got off at Hasimara station at 4pm. Then we boarded the Kanchan Kanya Express and reached Sealdah at 8.30pm."

"This is the first time I am seeing donors coming in such numbers from another country. It is a bond of blood being formed. Patients from Bhutan have been coming here since 2012. The year after 'Dro Model' Center opened," said Dr Arun, said Dr Arun, who has conducted surgery training at a Bhutan hospital.

The donors get to tour the city the next morning before they board the train back home. "We are planning to visit a mall. We do not have one in Bhutan," said Thirley Dorji, a fire safety officer. The train trip was also a novelty for the mountaineers and fire
