Syria insurgents push their advance toward 2nd largest city Aleppo

AP ■ BEIRUT

Thousands of Syrian insurgents pushed on with their advances on government-held areas in the country's northwest, reaching the outskirts of Syria's second largest city Aleppo and wresting control of several strategic towns and villages along the way, activists and fighters said on Friday.

Syria's state media and activists from rebel groups landed in the ancient accommodations at Aleppo university, killing four people, including two students. Public transportation to the city has also been diverted from the main highway linking Aleppo to the capital Damascus to avoid clashes, state-controlled media reported.

Fighters also advanced on the town of Sarabat, in northwestern Idlib province, a strategic area that would secure supply lines to Aleppo.

This week's advances were one of the largest by opposition factions since the US-led Syria at HITS, and comes after weeks of low-intensity fighting in northwestern Syria since 2020, when government forces seized areas previously controlled by opposition fighters.

Syria's Armed Forces said the insurgents are violating a 2018 agreement that de-escalated fighting in the area, which has been the scene of opposition stronghold for years. State media reported airstrikes on insurgents' positions in Aleppo countryside. The insurgents reported that fighters have wrested control of the Scientific Research Centre, neighbourhood on the eastern outskirts of Aleppo city. It is the latest the rebels have come to Aleppo city since they ousted it from its eastern side in 2016. Russia and Iran had helped Syria's government forces reclaim control of all of Aleppo that year, after a gruelling military campaign and a siege that lasted for weeks.

The war monitor Syrian Observatory for Human Rights said activists had been killed in the battle that started on Wednesday. The insurgents have seized control of more than 50 villages in their advance, which seem to have caught the government forces unprepared.

Ireland votes in close-run election

AP ■ DUBLIN

Ireland is voting on Friday in a parliamentary election that will decide the next government — and will show whether Ireland breaks the global trend of incumbents being ousted by disgruntled voters after years of pandemic, international instability and a cost-of-living pressures.

Fiants opened at 7 a.m. (0700GMT), and Ireland's 3.8 million voters are selecting 174 lawmakers to sit in the Dail, the lower house of parliament.

Who's running?

The outgoing government was led by the two parties who have dominated Irish politics for the past century: Fine Gael and Fiants Fail. They have similar centrist policies but are long-time rivals with origins in opposing sides of Ireland's 1920 civil war.

After a two-week election ended in a virtual dead heat, they formed a coalition, agreeing to share Cabinet posts and take turns as taoiseach, or prime minister. Hanna Fail leader Michael Martin served as taoiseach for the first half of the term and was replaced by Fine Gael's Leo Varadkar in December 2022. Varadkar unexpectedly stepped down in March, passing the job to current Taoiseach Simon Harris.

Opposition party Sinn Fein achieved a stunning breakthrough in the 2020 election, toppling the popular vote, but was shut out of government because Fiants Fail and Fine Gael refused to work with it, citing its left-wing and historic ties with anti-British groups in the Irish Republican Army during decades of violence in Northern Ireland.

Under Ireland's system of proportional representation, each of the 43 constituencies elects multiple lawmakers, with voters ranking their preferences. This makes it relatively easy for smaller parties and independent candidates with a strong local following to gain seats. This election includes a large crop of independent candidates, ranging from local campaigners to far-right activists and reptile voice boxer 'Gerry the Monk' Hutch. What are the main issues? As in many other countries, the cost of living — especially housing — dominates the campaign.

Irland has an acute housing shortage, the legacy of failing to build enough new homes during the country's "Celtic Tiger" boom years and the economic stamp that followed the 2008 global financial crisis. "There was not building during the crisis, and while the crisis receded, offices and hotels were built first," said John-Mark McCafferty, chief executive of housing and homelessness charity Threshold.
