PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ Dehradun

Uttarakhand has been placed at second position after Goa in financial management and good governance among the small states of the country in the ranking released by a website of a renowned business newspaper. The State government enlists the achievement as a proof of its strong financial management, transparent administration and development oriented policies. The report suggests that Uttarakhand has performed remarkably well in controlling its fiscal deficit, augmenting its revenue and management of government guarantees. It also points out that good investment in health, education and other social sectors have helped the State in getting a good rank.

Apart from the financial management, the State has caught attention in good governance. It has tried to strengthen digital and e- services and provided a better environment for the investors. Expressing happiness, chief minister Pushkar Singh Dhami said that the second rank of the State among small states reflects policies and hard work of the State government and the faith of the people. He said that priority was accorded to education, health services, digital services and judicial services. Dhami said that the State government is committed to make Uttarakhand one of the leading states of the country under the guidance of Prime Minister Narendra Modi. "Our target is to make Uttarakhand a State where quality services and opportunities are available to every citizen. This achievement is one step forward in the direction of a bright future of the State," he said.

U'khand police cracks the whip on cyber criminals in 17 States

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ Dehradun

Uttarakhand police conducted a co-ordinated crackdown across 17 States for 42 days in which 23 special teams identified over 50 cybercrime suspects and issued notices at the homes of more than 30 absconders. This is the first time a State police force executed such a large-scale simultaneous action against cyber offenders across the country, said Ankush Mishra, the deputy superintendent of police of Dehradun cyber crime police unit of Uttarakhand Special Task Force (STF). He informed that launched under the directive of director general of police Deepam Seth, Operation Prahar involved the deployment of cyber-crime teams from Garhwal and Kumaon divisions. The STF SSP Navneet Bhullar instructed cyber police stations to conduct raids and gather digital evidence. Mishra devised the operational strategy, which was implemented by inspectors Tribhuvan Rautela and Arun Kumar, heading the Garhwal and Kumaon cyber police units, respectively. Mishra said that the 42-day operation covered states including Himachal Pradesh, Punjab, Haryana, Delhi, Uttar Pradesh, Madhya Pradesh, Rajasthan, Gujarat, Andhra Pradesh, Telangana, Kerala, Tamil Nadu, West Bengal, Karnataka and Goa. Trained cyber commandos, equipped with technical skills and I4C training also supported the campaign.

He said that teams coordinated with local police and technical agencies to track suspects using addresses, mobile numbers, bank details and social media profiles. They identified 225 individuals who had opened bank accounts or secured mobile numbers using false documents. Seven cyber-criminals lodged in various jails were taken on remand through B-warrants and six others received bailable warrants. Notices were pasted at the residences of 30 absconders to inform families of pending actions, the DSP said. He informed that the operation revealed that many suspects had used forged identities and operated in organised networks. It also posed logistical and communication challenges due to language barriers, geographic constraints and regional differences. One accused individual was reported deceased during the course of the investigation, he said. The DSP stated that overall, the operation led to action against more than 290 individuals and the Operation Prahar will continue as part of an ongoing campaign to counter cybercrime, with teams still active across several states. The STF aims to reinforce coordination among state agencies and intensify efforts to curb digital frauds. He also urged the public to report cybercrimes through the 1930 helpline or www.cybercrime.gov.in.

Disability welfare organisations not providing shelter to needy children, DM orders high-level inquiry

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ Dehradun

The Dehradun district magistrate Savin Bansal has formed a high-level committee to investigate several renowned disability welfare organisations that reportedly failed to offer assistance to disabled and helpless girls when they needed the most. The committee is expected to submit its report on 10 key points, with strict instructions to take action if any violations of regulations are found. The DM said that these organisations, which claim to work for the welfare of disabled children, receive funding from the State and central governments as well as foreign sources. However, despite receiving such support, these institutions have been reportedly refusing to admit children requiring care and treatment. He claimed that the administration came to know through various sources that many of these organisations, which present an inflated number of children and staff, lack the actual resources and infrastructure they claim to possess. During the registration process, the human resources listed in documents were found absent at many centres. The DM claimed that several well-known institutions are also allegedly involved in the misconduct. He informed that when these organisations were called upon to admit mentally disabled girls, they not only refused but also ignored instructions from the district probation officer and Social Welfare department. The DM expressed strong disapproval of the situation and directed a comprehensive investigation into the functioning of these institutions. He informed that the committee is tasked with probing various aspects of the operations of these organisations, particularly their adherence to the norms and their actual capacity to serve the disabled. If the inquiry reveals any violations, the registration of these institutions will be cancelled. Furthermore, Bansal said that officers must recognise their power and take firm actions against the exploitation and denial of rights to disabled individuals. As per the information shared by the district administration, several institutions under scrutiny include Bajaj Institute of Learning at Rajpur Road, Latika Rai Foundation at Vasant Vihar, Nanhi Duniya school for hearing impaired at Kalidas Road, Dyslexia Society of Uttarakhand at Rajpur Road, Raphael Ryder Cheshire International Centre, Arunima Project with Autism Unit of the Gateway at Sinaula village in Sahaspur, Bharat Mandir School Society in Rishikesh and various others operating in the Dehradun district. The DM said that these institutions have been receiving funds for the welfare, education and rehabilitation of disabled individuals but have failed to live up to their commitments. The investigation will focus on the actual facilities, staff and children at these institutions compared to what was reported during registration, he added.

Char Dham police control room counters misinformation, addresses pilgrims' queries

PIONEER NEWS SERVICE ■ Dehradun

The police control room set up for Char Dham Yatra 2025 in Dehradun has been playing a crucial role in disbursing fake information and addressing pilgrims' queries. Several fake reports were floating online regarding Char Dham Yatra in the past one week during the India-

Andhra Pradesh and Maharashtra. The inspector general of police, Garhwal range, Rajeev Swaroop said that the control room received nearly 100 calls within two to three hours from anxious pilgrims, mostly from Andhra Pradesh after the fake news went viral. Many had already booked updates and reassured pilgrims that all services were operational. Swaroop also recorded a personal message which was circulated on various platforms and asked the pilgrims on the WhatsApp group and others to forward the message further to help counter the misinformation. He said that the proactive measures helped restore confidence among the pilgrims. "There was a sense of panic initially but once they received verified information from us, the situation eased. Many pilgrims planning the Yatra were able to proceed without worry," Swaroop said. Since the Yatra began on April 30, the control room has received over 600 complaints and queries. Around 250 were logged directly at the Char Dham control room, while more than 300 came through the Dial 112 emergency line. The IG said that the control room tracks and monitors all complaints until resolution. While some calls are termed as emergencies like scam in heliservices, accidents or health issues and lost companions in crowds and during trekking, others include traffic jams, parking problems or hotel-related concerns. Officials promptly route non-emergency issues to respective district authorities while prioritising urgent cases. This is the first time a dedicated control room was set up for Char Dham Yatra which has been playing a vital role in maintaining smooth operations and safety during the Yatra. Its quick action in busting fake information and addressing public inquiries has shown the significance of efficient communication during sensitive times, the IG added.

Pakistan conflict including Char Dham registration and helicopter services which were efficiently addressed by the control room. trains, buses and helicopter services for the pilgrimage and were concerned about potential cancellations. In response, the police set up a dedicated WhatsApp group to communicate directly with the affected pilgrims. Many were also questioning whether the government had halted the Char Dham Yatra and its registration due to the India Pakistan conflict. The police shared accurate
